Item 4 - Description of Our Advisory Business

JWCA is a Florida corporation registered with the SEC, since November 9, 2000. Our headquarters are in Tampa, Florida. Mr. John Carlson is the founding Principal, current President, Chief Executive Officer, and Chief Financial Officer. Mr. Carlson owns more than 75% of JWCA's common stock.

JWCA has an expense sharing agreement with J.W. Cole Financial, Inc. ("JWCF"), a registered broker-dealer Member FINRA/SIPC, for access to staff, office space, supplies, etc. As part of the outsource agreement, JWCA pays JWCF for such services. JWCA and JWCF are separate and distinct business entities with different ownership. JWCA conducts its investment advisory business through a network of over 400 independent Investment Adviser Representatives ("IAR's"). IARs operate in offices located throughout the United States. IARs may operate under their own business name(s) or DBA name(s), and their business name(s) and logos may appear on their sales and marketing materials. All sales and marketing materials used by IARs are reviewed and approved by JWCA. The business name(s) and DBA name(s) used by IARs are separate from and not owned and/or controlled by JWCF or JWCA. IARs may also offer and provide other services through their business name(s), however, with limited exceptions, investment advisory services offered by IARs must be provided through JWCA. Information about the IAR's other businesses can be found in the IARs' Form ADV Part 2B Brochure Supplement.

A majority of JWCA's IARs are also dually registered as Registered Representatives ("RRs") to solicit, offer, and sell securities through JWCF. JWCF is a full-service securities broker-dealer Member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and the Securities Investors Protection Corporation ("SIPC"). IARs may also be licensed as independent insurance agents through various insurance companies to solicit, offer, and sell fixed and/or property and casualty insurance products in the states in which they conduct business. Therefore, IARs can potentially be acting in all three capacities when soliciting, offering, and selling investment products, investment advisory services, and/or insurance products to the client. IARs registered as RRs, IARs, and licensed as independent insurance agents create conflicts of interest when IARs solicit, offer, and sell securities and insurance products for which clients would pay a commission, while also soliciting, offering, and selling investment advisory services and managing the assets in their clients' accounts and charging a separate investment advisory fee. Our IARs manage assets on either a discretionary or non-discretionary basis. As of December 31, 2021, JWCA manages $3,702,681,033 in client assets on a discretionary basis, and $1,799,482,815 on a non-discretionary basis.

The Types of Advisory Services We Offer:

JWCA and its IARs may solicit, offer, and sell fee-based investment advisory services including fee-based financial planning, the use of Third-Party Advisers, or other third-party advisory services, and/or charge an investment advisory fee for managing clients' accounts as further detailed below. IARs, when also acting as RRs of JWCF, may also solicit, offer, and sell securities, including but not limited to individual stocks and bonds, mutual funds, closed end funds, Exchange Traded Funds ("ETFs"), and non-traded alternative products, including but not limited to Real Estate Investment Trusts ("REITs") and private placements, Hedge Funds and Private Equities. IARs that are licensed as insurance agents may also solicit, offer, and sell fixed and/or property and casualty insurance products. Usually, the client will be charged a commission when purchasing securities through JWCF or insurance products.

Our advisory services consist of advice regarding various types of public and private securities. These include, but are not limited to equities, corporate debt, government obligations, municipal securities, exchange-traded funds, unit investment trusts, mutual funds or other pooled investments, options/derivatives, alternative investments, interests in real estate or oil and gas partnerships, annuities/insurance products, and other investment instruments. In certain arrangements, you have the ability to impose restrictions on a particular security or asset category.

Please understand JWCA does not guarantee or promise that your financial goals and objectives will be met. It is your obligation to review any analysis and advice, and provide updates whenever your financial situation, goals, objectives, or needs change, so your IAR can adjust his/her advice and your plan accordingly.

A.) Managed Programs:

We offer four types of managed programs:

1. Transaction-Based Advisory Account Programs – This is a fee-based investment advisory account, in which your IAR will directly manage your investment account according to your financial profile and investment objectives. You will pay an ongoing, asset-based advisory fee based on the market value of billable assets being managed at an account-level, and nominal transaction fees for each transaction, with some accounts also incurring a program fee. Your JWCA IAR may or may not pay for these transaction costs. If the IAR does not pay for such costs, you will incur additional costs each time your JWCA IAR recommends the purchase and sale of a security. This will increase the costs associated with such account, as compared to a Wrap Account (see below). If your IAR elects to pay transaction charges, while you will not pay such costs, your IAR is incented to either not recommend transactions, in order to avoid having to pay such transaction costs, or may recommend investments which have lower transaction costs, but which may be more expensive to you. Your IAR will deliver ongoing investment advice and monitoring of your security holdings. You have the option to allow your IAR to manage your assets on a non- discretionary basis, wherein you must contemporaneously approve each transaction recommended by your IAR, or you may authorize, in writing, that your account be managed on a discretionary basis, if certain qualifications are met. Certain minimum fees apply. In a discretionary account, your IAR makes investment decisions on your behalf, without your contemporaneous approval. In no case can your IAR withdraw funds or securities without your approval (Please see Item 16 for further details). Please note that in addition to the asset-based advisory fee, you will pay other certain fees, such as service charges.

2. Asset-Based Advisory Account Program – This is a “wrap” fee investment advisory account, in which your IAR will manage your investment account according to your financial profile and, in exchange, you will pay an ongoing advisory fee. Like a Transaction-Based Advisory Account Programs you will pay an asset-based Program Fee. Unlike a transaction-based advisory account, the asset-based fee in this Program covers certain transaction costs within the advisory fee. However, the Program Fee for JWCA’s Asset-Based offerings is higher than the Program Fee for the Transaction-Based Advisory Programs. Thus, if you are a client that intends to receive advice on multiple securities transactions, the Wrap Account may be beneficial. However, if you intend to engage in fewer transactions, but still desire ongoing investment advice, a Transaction-Based Advisory Account may be more appropriate for you given the lower Program Fee. Understand that in a Wrap account, JWCA and the JWCA IAR have a conflict of interest in that they are incented to not recommend transactions since the costs of such transactions reduces the profitability of the Wrap Account to them. Your IAR will deliver ongoing investment advice and monitoring of your security holdings. You have the option to allow your IAR to manage your assets on a non- discretionary basis, or they may be managed on a discretionary basis, if certain qualifications are met and upon your written authorization. The overall cost you will incur if you participate in our wrap fee program may be higher or lower than you might incur by separately purchasing the types of securities available in the program. Note, there is no cost for the initial 50 trades placed in your account, however in the event trading activity exceeds that number on a rolling 12-month period (each 12-month period begins at your Anniversary date), you will be charged a $9.95 transaction fee for each trade after the 50 trades. For further information please refer to the JWCA Form ADV Part 2A Appendix Wrap Fee Program Brochure.

3. Managed Account Solutions Program - The Managed Account Solutions (MAS) program allows your IAR to provide you advisory services by using a third-party advisory service. Depending on the particular MAS advisory solution selected, the day-to-day management of the advisory account may be performed by the IAR, a third-party manager, or a combination of the two. This is a tri-party investment advisory program sponsored by Envestnet Asset Management, Inc. (Envestnet) and the clearing custodial firms, National Financial, LLC (NFS) or Independent Wealth Services (IWS). A custodian is the entity that actually holds your securities and other investments on behalf of JWCA. The MAS program consists of an extensive range of investment advisory services, including: Separately Managed Accounts, Mutual Fund Solutions, ETF Solutions, Unified Managed Accounts, Multi-Manager Accounts and an IAR Directed Model Program. Clients who select the MAS program will also receive Envestnet's Form ADV Part 2A, which provides greater detail regarding the program sponsor.

Each of these programs has distinct fees and charges such as platform, custody and clearing and are outlined in the Statement of Investment Selection (SIS) that is provided to you prior to investing as are the minimum fee amounts by fee type. Your IAR can discuss the features of each program with you so that you may determine your preferred cost option that best suits your investment style. Note, there is no transaction cost for the initial 40 trades, however in the event trading activity exceeds 40 trades on a rolling 12-month period (each 12-month period begins at your Anniversary Date), you will be charged a $9.95 transaction fee for each trade after the 40 trades.

4. The JWCA AMP Program ("AMP Program") This Automated Managed Platform program is offered only online through an interactive website. Utilizing a question-based process, an interface guides you step by step through the process to assess your risk tolerance, build your investment portfolio and open your own account. The AMP Program is a discretionary investment management service designed for individual investors with accounts of $5,000 or more. The AMP Program is only available to residents of the U.S. and is not available to foreign investors (individuals or entities) or U.S. citizens residing outside of the U.S. Regular and continuous internet access is required to enroll in the Service and to access all AMPProgram-related documents. You should not invest if you do not have regular and continuous Internet access. For further information please refer to the J.W. Cole AMP Brochure.

B.) Third-Party Investment Advisers:

We also offer advisory services through Third-Party Investment Advisers (TPIAs) also known as, "third-party asset managers," or, "unaffiliated investment advisers," who manage your assets. Your IAR helps you select the appropriate TPIA program and particular investment strategy offered by the TPIA for you consistent with your financial profile and investment objectives. We maintain an approved list of TPIAs who are available for your IAR to recommend. On a regular basis, your IAR monitors changes to your financial profile and the TPIA you selected, and provides advice for you to adjust the strategy or TPIA if necessary. You will be charged a management fee. A portion of this fee will be distributed to the TPIA, a portion will be distributed to the platform provider, a portion will cover the transaction costs, and a portion will go to your IAR and JWCA. A TPIA generally provides a range of services to IARs to help them meet your portfolio management needs; including building various investment strategies, providing access to various asset managers and custodians, providing due diligence and research, portfolio construction, proposal generation, account rebalancing, account monitoring, performance reporting, account support, and other tools designed to manage and invest your assets. However, the TPIA manages your advisory account on a day-to-day basis.

C.) Financial Planning and Consulting:

We also offer financial planning and consulting services on matters involving securities and non-securities topics, for which we charge either an hourly rate or a flat fee. In addition, you may elect to engage in an ongoing financial planning arrangement for which you will pay a recurring fee. Financial planning topics may include but are not limited to: tax planning, asset allocation, estate planning, investment planning, risk management, retirement planning, and college planning. Your IAR will consult with you to discuss your goals, objectives, risk tolerance, and any special circumstance unique to you. After performing this analysis, your IAR will present recommendations to you, either verbally or in a written financial analysis. Your IAR may prepare other special reports on these matters for you at your request.

To implement the planning advice you receive from your IAR, your IAR may recommend that you work with other professionals, such as other broker-dealers (including JWCF), investment advisers (including JWCA), attorneys or accountants. Your IAR may also recommend that you utilize various financial products to assist with helping to meet your financial goals. You are under no obligation to act on any of the financial planning recommendations provided to you by your IAR, and you may choose to implement the recommendations through other service providers.

Your IAR will base the financial planning recommendations on your initial profile provided at the time of engagement.

D.) Variable Annuity Sub-Account Management:

We offer advisory services to help manage variable annuity insurance products that you may currently own. Variable annuity insurance products contain sub-accounts, which are portfolios of investment assets. Based upon your financial profile, your IAR will recommend an advisory service designed to assist you with selecting which sub-accounts best help you meet your financial goals. In some instances, your IAR may manage the investments in those sub-accounts. This includes variable annuity contracts you purchase through your IAR in their capacity as a registered representative of JWCF.

Alternatively, your IAR may recommend that you select a TPIA who will manage the sub-accounts according to your financial profile. This advisory service is separate from our other services and is pursuant to a written Annuity Advisory Agreement. Both your IAR and JWCA will receive a portion of the fee charged to manage your sub-accounts.

In addition, your IAR may recommend fee-only variable annuities. For further information on Variable Annuity Sub-Account Management, please refer to Section 5.

Item 5 - Fees and Compensation

Managed Programs Fee:

The default advisory fee tiered schedule is applicable for the following three Managed Programs: Transaction-Based Advisory Account Programs, Asset-Based Advisory Account Program, and the Managed Account Solutions Program.

Under certain circumstances, fees may be negotiated. Fees may also be charged at a flat rate, instead of on a tiered schedule. Your fees may be higher or lower than the default schedule. Generally, the maximum fee is 3.00% and the minimum fee is 0.25%. Certain minimum fees may apply.

Tiered Fee Schedule

Advisory Fees (also referred to as “Management Fees”), are fees charged by JWCA to manage the assets in your Advisory Account. In general, Management Fees are based on a percentage of the Client’s billable assets under management that are held in the Advisory Account, but the Management Fee varies by Platform Offering, custodian and type of Advisory Account (see particular Addendum). Billable assets represent those assets on which JWCA and your IAR are providing investment advice. Assets that are deemed to be excluded from management fee billing are not considered part of your advisory relationship and you will not receive any investment advice on such excluded assets. In some instances, the Management Fee includes not only investment management services, but also includes the costs of transactions in your Advisory Account (see Asset-Based program described below). The Management Fee is payable quarterly in advance or arrears, depending on the particular Platform Offering, custodian and Advisory Account. Please review the Fee Schedule in the applicable Assets Under Management Agreement to determine the exact Management Fee and methodology of payment. Understand you will pay the quarterly Management Fee regardless of whether there are any transactions in your account during the quarter.

A separate Program Fee may also be charged depending on the particular platform offering and custodian utilized. The Program Fee is billed in exchange for services provided by the Firm and custodian to your investment account. The Program Fee is also generally based on a percentage of assets of the total account value, inclusive of both billable and excluded assets, often with a minimum quarterly amount required, in your Advisory Account. The Management Fee and Program Fee are also sometimes collectively referred to as Portfolio Fees in the Fee Schedules of the Assets Under Management Agreement and or applicable addendum. Understand you will pay the Program Fee regardless of whether there are any transactions in your account during the quarter.

Transaction costs are imposed by a Custodian to execute securities transactions in an Advisory Account (the costs are also sometimes referred to as “ticket charges”). For “Transaction-Based” Advisory Accounts, the costs of such transactions are charged to the Client’s Advisory Account. In such Advisory Accounts, Client is charged for the cost of each purchase or sale of an investment. Please note that Transaction Costs are in addition to the Management Fee and Program Fee. The JWCA IAR may or may not elect to pay such fees. If the IAR does not pay for such costs, you will incur additional costs each time your JWCA IAR recommends the purchase and sale of a security. This will increase the costs associated with such account, as compared to an Asset-Based Advisory Account. If your IAR elects to pay transaction charges, while you will not pay such costs, your IAR is incented to either not recommend transactions, in order to avoid having to pay such transaction costs, or may recommend investments which have lower transaction costs, which may be more expensive to you. In an “Asset-Based” account (also known as a “Wrap Account”), transaction costs are included in the Management/Program Fee. However, the Program Fee in an Asset-Based Advisory Account is higher than the Program Fee in a Transaction-Based Advisory Account and certain trading limits may apply in such accounts. Transactions above such limits in Wrap Accounts will incur transaction costs.

Other Fees and Expenses: In addition to the above, and depending on the Program Offering and Advisory Account selected, Client’s Advisory Account may also incur other fees, including, among others, service fees, statement fees, wire fees, account termination fees and minimum account fees. In addition, JWCA and the JWCA IAR may offer no-load and load-waived mutual funds. While there are no commissions charged for these mutual funds, the Client might incur certain charges imposed by those mutual funds. These charges may include, but are not limited to: mutual fund 12(b)-1 distribution fees, shareholder service fees, short term redemption fees on certain mutual funds that are being redeemed, and certain IRA and qualified retirement plan fees. Other investments may also charge fees associated with insurance riders and mortality and expense (M&E) charges, and/or certain IRA and qualified retirement plan fees.

As stated above, the Management Fee is based on a percentage of the current market value of the billable assets in your advisory account under our management. The advisory fee is calculated based on the number of days in the specific quarter, generally equating to a 365 day basis, and charged quarterly, in advance or in arrears dependent on the terms of your specific advisory agreement. We use a third-party fee-billing service that receives asset valuations from the custodian of your account, and we do not independently verify, value, or aggregate your assets. Management and Program Fees are calculated the end of each quarter by using the ending market value of the billable assets in your account for the Management Fee and the total asset value in your account for the Program Fee, on the last business day of the quarter. We pro-rate the initial and closing Management Fee, based on the number of days in which advisory services were rendered to you in the calendar quarter. Upon notification to us, Management Fees, not to exceed $15,000, will be adjusted for additions or withdrawals to your account during the quarter.

Please understand that if an IAR earns a commission on an investment in the capacity of a Registered Representative, and those assets are placed in an advisory account, the amount of the Management Fee attributable to such assets will be excluded from the calculation of the Management Fee for a period of time. These fees are charged by the custodian and a portion of the fees are shared with JWCF. Please request a complete list of the fees for the program in which you are investing.

Upon notification that a pre-paid advisory service has been terminated, we will automatically pro-rate the period in question and rebate you back any fees due. It is not necessary for you to separately request the rebate.

Third-Party Investment Adviser Fees:

Each of the Third-Party Investment Advisers (“TPIA”) will charge advisory fees in accordance with the terms of the agreement you signed with the TPIA. TPIA relationships may include separately managed accounts, unified managed accounts, and direct fund fee-based platforms. Advisory fees, or any minimum investment requirements imposed by the TPIA, may or may not be negotiable. Advisory fees will generally be determined by the TPIA and a) may only allow for fee billing in arrears or advance, b) may be based on daily average asset values compared to an end of quarter value, c) may calculate fees monthly or quarterly, and d) have different rules regarding credits or debits relating to additions or withdrawals. You should review closely the criteria used by the TPIA for determining and debiting advisory fees. The TPIA will custody your assets with their corresponding custodian. Additionally, TPIAs have different policies regarding liquidation requests which could result in changes in market value from the time of request to the time of liquidation. You are encouraged to review the specific criteria established by the TPIA prior to investing.

TPIAs may or may not be wrap programs. Any fees or charges for brokerage and custodial services incurred in connection with the TPIA's management of your account are in addition to the TPIA's investment advisory fee. Depending on the arrangement with the TPIA you chose, our fee for the advisory services we provide to you in connection with selecting and monitoring the TPIA may be paid to JWCA by the TPIA or directly by the custodian of your assets, who charges your account.

Financial Planning and Consulting Fees:

Clients electing to engage us for financial planning and consulting services may choose between an hourly rate, or a flat fee for either a one-time engagement, or ongoing financial planning engagement. These fees may be negotiated prior to executing the agreement and can be paid with a check, credit card, bank EFT or withdrawal from an account held under JWCA or JWCF. Clients electing a flat fee for financial planning services may be requested to pay the Financial Planning and Consulting fee in advance or upon delivery of agreed upon services. For the hourly rate option, we may request payment either upon execution of your agreement, upon delivery of the advisory services, or some a combination of these. We may charge up to $350.00 per hour for these advisory services.

Either party may terminate the agreement at any time by providing the other party with written notice. Upon termination, we will refund any unearned Financial Planning and Consulting Fees paid by you, based upon the amount of documented time and/or services already rendered by your IAR on the financial plan prior to the termination of the agreement. You may terminate your agreement within five business days of signing the agreement to receive a full refund of all Financial and Consulting fees paid.

Variable Annuity Sub-Account Management:

Clients engaged in in Variable Annuity Sub-Account Management will pay an advisory fee for such management services. Under certain circumstances, advisory fees may be negotiated. Advisory fees may also be charged at a flat percentage or on a tiered schedule. Your fees may be higher or lower than the default schedule. Generally, the maximum allowable advisory fee is 2.00% and the minimum allowable fee is 0.25%. Certain minimum fees may apply.

The advisory fee is based on a percentage of the current market value of the variable annuity assets under management. The advisory fee is charged quarterly, in advance or in arrears based on the terms of your advisory agreement. The advisory fee schedule you pay is set forth in your advisory agreement, which will include details on how payment is made to JWCA. We calculate the advisory fee at the end of each calendar quarter using an actual day basis in the period by using the ending market value of your assets in your account on the last business day of the quarter. The market value is determined by your annuity(ies) company. We review, but do not independently verify or value your variable annuity assets. In certain instances, advisory fees will be determined by the annuity company and a) may only allow for fee billing in arrears or advance, b) may be based on daily average asset values compared to an end of quarter value, c) may calculate fees monthly or quarterly, and d) have different rules regarding credits or debits relating to additions or withdrawals. You should review closely the criteria used by the annuity company contained within their agreement for determining and debiting advisory fees.

Your IAR, acting in his/her capacity as registered representatives of JWCF, may also receive or received commissions on the sale of variable annuities to you. In addition to commissions, variable annuities also carry internal fees. These commissions and fees create a conflict of interest if your representative recommends a variable annuity purchase to you, and as a result, receives both a commission on your purchase of your variable annuity in his/her capacity as a Registered Representative of JWCF, in addition to subsequent advisory fees for sub-account management. Your IAR must disclose this conflict of interest to you when the agreement is executed. Upon notification that a pre-paid advisory service has been terminated, we will automatically pro-rate the period in question and rebate back to you any fees due. It is not necessary for you to separately request the rebate.

You also have the option to select Third-Party Investment Advisers (“TPIA’s”) to manage the sub-accounts in your variable annuity. Under this relationship, you pay the TPIA’s management fee (and any other fees as identified in the TPIA’s ADV Part II) per your agreement with the TPIA. You will also pay JWCA a solicitor’s fee for the referral made by your IAR to the TPIA. This solicitor’s fee is negotiable. The default fee is one percent (1%). Your TPIA will charge all of the fees to your account and forward us our portion as solicitor.

A “no-load” annuity generally charges lower fees and expenses and is not sold on a commission basis. Typically, a load annuity, sold on a commission basis, is not transferable into a similar no-load product offered by the same annuity company. In other words, if you have a load annuity, you will not likely be able to convert this annuity to a no-load annuity, even if it is held with the same annuity company. While no-load annuities do not charge a commission and have lower annual fees, they may also lack certain features and benefits of load annuities, such certain income riders. Please speak with your IAR regarding the features and benefits of the various annuities available to you.

Important Considerations Regarding Direct Billing to Your Custodian:

Generally, your signed agreement authorizes us to bill advisory/Management fees to the custodian of your account and directs your custodian to debit advisory fees from your account. Your statements produced by the custodian will reflect each advisory fee deduction from your account. You may withdraw the authorization for direct billing of these fees at any time by notifying us, or your custodian, in writing.

Conflict of Interest Considerations Regarding Mutual Funds and Variable Annuities:

All fees paid to JWCA for advisory services are separate and distinct from the internal fees and expenses charged by mutual funds and/or variable annuity sub-accounts, which are described in each mutual fund's or variable annuity's prospectus. Generally, these internal mutual fund and variable annuity fees and expenses include a management fee for the mutual fund or annuity and other expenses. Variable annuities also generally pay distribution fees to JWCF, often referred to as 12b-1-fees. This creates a conflict for JWCA as it incents the Firm to recommend such annuities to increase revenue paid to JWCF, a broker-dealer with which JWCA maintains an expense sharing arrangement. The Firm mitigates this conflict by requiring its IARs to act in the Client's best interest when recommending annuities, and their respective share classes; supervising IARs' recommendations and advice; and regularly converting mutual fund share classes that charge 12b-1 fees to lower-cost share classes when appropriate. 12b-1 fees associated with mutual funds are automatically credited back to your account by NFS.

Specifically, for advisory accounts that are not categorized as Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") qualified client plan accounts, every 60 days, the Firm reviews whether you are invested in the mutual fund share class with the lowest overall fees available on the specific platform in which your mutual fund assets are custodied, consistent with your best interest. The review may determine you are invested in a share class that pays 12b-1 fees, even though a lower cost share class is available. The Firm remedies this conflict by initiating on a regular basis a share class conversion on applicable client assets, from a higher cost share class to a lower cost share class, if we determine that conversion is in your best interest. However, certain limitations may apply that would cause the Firm to not to convert the funds to a lower share class including, but not limited to, minimum investment requirements by the mutual fund pre-approval requirements, surcharges imposed by the custodian, short-term redemption fees, etc. Because custodians may assess different surcharges, some mutual fund share classes deemed to be most appropriate at one custodian may be different at another custodian. Additionally, as stated above, to the extent a non-12b-1 fee paying fund share class is unavailable on the NFS platform, any 12b-1 fees generated are automatically credited back your account by NFS.

Certain funds also charge transaction fees to purchase or sell the fund. Advisory accounts that incur such transaction costs, commonly referred to as "ticket charges," are referred to as "Transaction-Based Advisory Accounts." At your IAR's discretion, he/she may choose to pay for your associated transaction costs. Please note, if your IAR elects to pay for such transaction costs, there is a conflict of interest in that your IAR is incented to not recommend that you purchase and sell securities as the IAR will have to pay the transaction costs.

However, you will still be charged other fees including an advisory fees, program fees and miscellaneous fees charged by the custodian, even if there are no purchases or sales of securities in your advisory account. In an “Asset-Based Advisory Account” (i.e. A Wrap Account), transaction costs are included in the investment advisory fees you pay. However, the program fee in an Asset-Based Advisory Account is higher than the program fee in a Transaction-Based Advisory Account and other miscellaneous fees also apply. You should review and discuss with your IAR, all JWCA fees and those fees charged by mutual funds, variable annuities, and other entities to fully understand the total amount of fees you are paying.

If your IAR, in his/her capacity as a registered representative with JWCF, receives a commission on certain investment purchases made with assets held in your account, this creates a conflict of interest. There is an incentive for your IAR to recommend investment products, not necessarily based on your needs, but based on the compensation received by the IAR in his/her capacity as a registered representative of JWCF, and then move the investments to an advisory account and receive advisory fees on the same investments. Your IAR is therefore required to waive the advisory fee on these assets for a period of time.

Your JWCA advisory account may also contain certain assets for which no active investment advice is being given. These assets will be considered “excluded assets” and will not be billed a Management Fee (advisory fee) while considered excluded. These assets are not considered part of the advisory relationship with your IAR. While a Management Fee will not be charged, any program fees or miscellaneous fees will still apply to you; such fees are based on the total account value and includes both billable and excluded assets. Examples of excluded assets may include securities with disadvantaged tax consequences; restricted, control, affiliate, employer securities or other investments you may have an attachment to, securities for which your IAR is prohibited from giving advice, as well as existing investments not recommended to you by your current IAR. The time period that the advisory fee is excluded will be determined on a case-by-case basis.

The assets subject to an investment fee waiver (i.e., “fee-excluded”) do not include a waiver of 12b-1 payments, which are mitigated by the steps discussed above. It is important to note that a commission paid to your IAR, in their capacity as a registered representative of JWCF on an excluded asset, may be higher than the amount of the advisory fee that would have otherwise been charged on the asset if it was not an excluded asset.

Conflicts of Interest Related to Loans

JWCA provides various benefits and/or payments to newly-associated JWCA IARs to assist the IARs with the costs associated with transitioning the IAR’s clients’ business to JWCA (including IARs’ foregone revenues caused by their transition to JWCA) by offering forgivable loans to such IARs. These IARs, in turn, each execute a “Promissory Note” to JWCA. The Promissory Note reflects the IAR’s obligation to pay back the loan, including interest, unless the IAR meets certain agreed-upon terms, which then result in the loan being forgiven by JWCA. The agreed-upon terms generally require the IAR to remain associated with JWCA as an IAR for a period of time. While an IAR who meets the agreed-upon terms of a forgivable loan causes JWCA to forego the financial benefit of the loan repayment, the forgivable loans are structured by JWCA in such a manner that when the IAR remains associated with JWCA for a certain period of time, JWCA will generally receive an economic benefit from that IAR's continued association with JWCA, so that the loan can be forgiven. The forgivable loans are generally in the form of payments by JWCA/JWCF to the IAR with favorable interest rate terms as compared to those of a traditional lender.

The proceeds of the forgivable loan may be used for a variety of purposes by the IAR, including but not limited to, providing working capital to assist in funding the IAR's business, satisfying any outstanding debt owed by the IAR to the IAR's prior firm, offsetting account transfer fees (ACATs) as a result of the IAR's clients transitioning to a JWCA-approved custodial platform, technology set-up fees, marketing and mailing costs, stationery and licensure transfer fees, moving expenses, office space expenses, staffing support and termination fees associated with moving accounts. However, JWCA does not verify that any forgivable loan proceeds given to an IAR are actually used for transition costs.

The amount of a forgivable loan to an IAR can be significant in relation to the overall revenue earned or compensation received by the IAR from his/her prior firm. The amount of the forgivable loan to the IAR is generally based on the IAR's production established at his or her prior firm. For example, the amount of a forgivable loan may be based on a percentage of the revenue earned, or assets serviced by the IAR at the prior firm. As stated above, the loan is then forgiven by JWCA if the IAR remains associated with JWCA for a required number of years.

The IAR's receipt of a forgivable loan creates a conflict of interest in that an IAR has a financial incentive to recommend that a client switch from securities, investment programs and services, and advisory options that the client maintained at the IAR's prior firm to advisory options available through JWCA so that the IAR can continue to be compensated. JWCA and its IARs attempt to mitigate these conflicts of interest by supervising and oversighting IARs to reasonably ensure that the IARs' clients use JWCA's services that are appropriate and based on the benefits that such services provided to clients. The supervisor of the IAR is not generally made aware of forgivable loans provided to the IAR, nor is the supervisor incented by the production of the IAR. However, clients should be aware of this conflict and take it into consideration in deciding whether to establish or maintain a relationship with the IAR and/or JWCA. Further, clients maintain the right not to use JWCA's services.

In addition to forgivable loans to IARs to assist with their transition to JWCA, occasionally JWCA may provide other loans to IAR's. These loans are generally intended to assist an IAR with the acquisition of another IAR's book of business or other business-related activities.

However, JWCA does not verify that any payments made by it are used for such activities. The supervisor of the IAR is not generally made aware of loans provided to the IAR, nor is the supervisor incented on the production of the IAR.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

JWCA does not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains or on a share of capital appreciation of your assets). However, there may be some TPIAs offered by JWCA who charge performance-based fees. You should review the specific TPIA's Form ADV Part II to identify such fees.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

JWCA provides the advisory services described above to: individuals, partnerships, pension and profit-sharing plans, trusts, estates, charities, corporations, and other entities. JWCA imposes certain conditions for starting or maintaining an advisory account. Generally, our Transaction-Based Advisory Account Program requires a minimum of $10,000; our Asset-Based Advisory Account Program requires a minimum of $100,000; and our Managed Account Solutions Program requires a minimum of $5,000 in cash or securities. We may terminate the agreement if the account does not meet the minimum amount required. At our discretion, we may waive this requirement if, for example, you have additional or related accounts that collectively exceed the minimum requirements. Certain minimum fees apply.

TPIAs also impose minimum fees and may require larger minimums than JWCA. Please review all agreements and request your IAR to explain any fees or account requirements prior to executing your written agreement.

JWCA does not require a minimum account size for financial planning services but does impose a minimum fee.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk Loss

Methods of Analysis:

Your IAR can employ various methods of investment analysis to evaluate securities for potential investment recommendations. These methods may include but are not limited to the following:

A.) Fundamental Analysis: A technique that attempts to identify investment opportunities by comparing an estimated true value of a company versus its current market value. The estimated value is conducted by assessing the company's current financial condition and consideration of other important company factors including, but not limited to: revenue projections, profitability, competitive advantages, liability exposure, management expertise, industry outlook, etc. Because it can take a long time for the market to reflect the company's value, one risk associated with this method of analysis is that potential gains may not be realized until the security's market price rises to the company's estimated true value, if at all. Furthermore, the information collected may be incorrect resulting in an inaccurate estimate of earnings, which may be the basis for the investment's value. Even if the information is correct, given the uncertainties of the markets, the analysis may ultimately prove wrong. If the company's security prices adjust rapidly to new information, relying upon fundamental analysis for investment opportunity may not result in favorable performance.

B.) Technical Analysis: A technique involving the analysis of past securities price movements to identify trends and attempt to forecast future price movements for potential investment opportunities. Unlike fundamental analysis, technical analysis does not analyze the company's value, but instead, analyzes the security's price movement in the market.

- Charting is a form of technical analysis in which the price and volume information for a security is analyzed using mathematical equations. The results are then graphically represented to illustrate patterns and identify potential investment opportunities.
- Cyclical analysis is another form of technical analysis, which focuses on the regularity of movements in the market and attempts to time the trading to coincide with anticipated market cycles.

Technical analysis studies the supply and demand in the market in an attempt to determine what direction, or trend, will continue in the future. However, there are risks involved with the technical analysis method, including the risk that trends will change unpredictably and that market timing results may not be favorable if the analysis does not accurately predict future price movements. Daily changes in securities prices often follow random patterns and may not be predictable with any reliable degree of accuracy.

Sources of Information:

Your IAR obtains information from a number of sources, both public and by purchase, including financial newspapers and magazines, reviews of corporate documents and activities, research materials prepared by third-parties, corporate rating services, annual reports, prospectuses and filings with the SEC, and company press releases. JWCA believes these resources for information are reliable and regularly depend on these resources for allowing your IAR to make investment recommendations; however, JWCA is not responsible for the accuracy or completeness of this information.

Investment Strategies:

The investment strategy recommended for you is based upon the initial financial profile information you provided to your IAR, as well as your goals. Prior to choosing an investment strategy, it is important to review with your IAR your investment objectives, risk tolerance, tax objectives, liquidity needs, and any other relevant financial considerations. Thereafter, such considerations should be reviewed at least annually. All investments carry a certain degree of risk and no particular investment style or portfolio manager is suitable for all types of investors.

Your IAR may use a variety of investment strategies depending on your circumstances, financial objectives, and needs. Your IAR may recommend implementing one or more of the following investment strategies: long-term purchases (generally held at least a year); short-term purchases (generally held less than a year); trading (typically held less than 30 days); margin transactions (purchase of a security on credit extended by a custodian based on the value of securities in your account); and option transactions (call and put positions). If you are uncomfortable or object to any investment strategy proposed or used by your IAR, we request that you promptly advise JWCA or your IAR of your concerns. Since you will receive confirmations from your account custodian for every transaction in your account, you need to contact JWCA at (866) 592- 6531 if any transaction or series of transactions, in your view, is objectionable in any way. If you do not contact JWCA within sixty (60) calendar days, you are implicitly agreeing that each transaction, series of transactions, and investment strategy is consistent with your investment suitability and goals.

Risk of Loss:

Investing in securities involves the risk of loss. Electing to follow the advice your IAR provides, indicates you have understood, are prepared for, and accepted this potential outcome. Investors face various risks, including but not limited to any or all of the following types of investment risks:

- Market Risk: The values and prices of securities may fluctuate in reaction to tangible events such as an underlying security's operating results; or intangible events such as political, social, economic; or the forces of investor supply and demand. Securities values may decline upon negative influences from any of these circumstances.
- Interest Rate Risk: Fixed income securities (e.g. bonds) typically have an inverse relationship with the movements of interest rates, meaning the prices of bonds will generally decrease during periods of rising interest rates. Interest rates can change based on a number of economic factors including but not limited to inflation, U.S. Federal Reserve monetary policy, and supply/demand.
- Credit Risk: There are three forms of Credit Risk which can impact the price of a security.
 - Default Risk occurs when an issuer (e.g. a company or government entity issuing a bond) fails to satisfy the terms of the obligation with respect to the timely payment of interest and the repayment of the amount borrowed.
 - Credit Spread Risk represents the risk investors experience when the yields of fixed income securities fluctuate and affect the market value of the bond. The credit spread risk is generally determined by the yield of a fixed income security relative to its risk-free alternative.
 - Downgrade Risk is the risk that bond prices will decline, due to a downgrade in its issuer's credit rating as assigned by agencies such as Moody's or S&P.
- Liquidity Risk: Risk that a given security or asset cannot be readily traded, such as when there are few buyers for a security. This results in potentially having to sell the security at a loss.
- Business Risk: The probability of loss inherent in an organization's operations and environment that may impair its ability to experience profit, negatively affecting the company's security's price.
- Inflation Risk: The uncertainty over the future real value of assets, due to the prevailing economic conditions.

- Political Risk: Risk that investment returns could suffer as a result of political changes or instability.

You should work with your IAR to attempt to identify the balance of risks and rewards that are appropriate and comfortable for you. However, it is still incumbent on you to ask questions if you do not fully understand the risks associated with any investment or investment strategy. By opening an advisory account, you are explicitly acknowledging that you understand and accept that there is always a risk of loss, or below-market rates of performance.

While your IAR strives to render his/her best judgment on your behalf, many economic and market variables are beyond the control of your IAR and JWCA and these variables may affect the performance of your investments. JWCA and your IAR cannot assure you that your investments will be profitable, or that no losses will occur in your investment portfolio. Past performance is one consideration with respect to any investment or investment advice, but it is not a predictor of future performance. If you are ever uncomfortable or unhappy with your investment performance, you need to contact your IAR immediately to discuss your concerns or contact JWCA at (866) 592- 6531.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

On August 25, 2021, JWCA, without admitting or denying the findings, consented to the entry of an Order by the Securities and Exchange Commission that its mutual fund share class selection practices resulted in an unaffiliated broker-dealer, with which JWCA maintained an expense sharing arrangement receiving three types of fees generated by certain transactions in JWCA advisory accounts without being fully disclosed. Between January 2014 and November 2016, JWCA recommended that JWCA advisory clients purchase or hold mutual fund share classes that charged 12b-1 fees when lower cost share classes were available for the same fund(s). Between January 2014 and March 2021, JWCA recommended that JWCA advisory clients purchase or hold mutual fund share classes which resulted in an unaffiliated broker-dealer, with which JWCA maintained an expense sharing arrangement, receiving revenue sharing payments when lower-cost share classes of the same mutual funds were available and would have resulted in no or lower revenue sharing. Additionally, between September 2016 and March 2020, the same unaffiliated broker-dealer received revenue sharing payments when client assets were invested in certain share classes of money market funds used as “cash sweep vehicles” when other, non-revenue sharing money market fund options were available.

JWCA failed to adequately disclose to advisory clients the conflicts of interest relating to the payments of these fees and its selection of certain mutual fund or money market share classes that paid such fees. As a result of this conduct, JWCA, without admitting or denying the findings, consented to an Order that found JWCA violated Sections 206(2) and 206(4) of the Advisers Act and Rule 206(4)-7 thereunder. Pursuant to the Order, JWCA was ordered to cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and any future violations of Sections 206(2) and 206(4) of the Advisers Act and Rule 206(4)-7. Further, JWCA received a censure and agreed to pay disgorgement, prejudgment interest and a civil penalty totaling $1,957,053.11. JWCA will comply with the undertakings enumerated in the Order. To review the order, visit: sec.gov/litigation/admin/2021/ia-5832.pdf.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

JWCA and JWCF are not under common ownership and are separate companies. JWCA and JWCF share a physical office location and mutually seek to minimize expenses of administration by sharing certain equipment, supplies, and other administrative and office expenses.

When we selected JWCF as an outsourced serviced provider, we considered the variety of JWCF's services, financial stability and competitive commission rates in our effort to provide brokerage services that meet your needs. In the capacity of a registered representative with JWCF, your IAR normally earns commissions on purchases and sales of securities and insurance products. This creates a conflict of interest when your IAR recommends the purchase of product, for which they receive a brokerage commission. To mitigate any conflicts, JWCA does not require you to purchase any recommended brokerage products from our IARs in their capacity as registered representatives of JWCF, or to utilize JWCF, for any products or services. You are free to purchase such products from another broker-dealer. If you do choose to use JWCF brokerage services, JWCA further mitigates this conflict by excluding certain products sold on a commission basis at JWCF, which are then transferred into an advisory account, from billable assets for the purpose of calculating your advisory fee (Management Fee) (for a certain period of time), as described above in the "Item 5 - Fees and Compensation" section.

Referral arrangements with an unaffiliated professional may also present a conflict of interest because JWCA and/or your IAR may have a direct or indirect financial incentive to recommend another professional's service as a result for his/her referral of clients to JWCA. While we believe that compensation charged by outside professionals is competitive, such compensation may be higher than fees charged by other professionals providing the same or similar services.

Some IARs are licensed in other professional capacities such as accountants, attorneys, and insurance agents. These other professional services are separate and distinct from JWCA's advisory services. When you use these businesses to purchase or sell insurance, or to obtain accounting, tax, legal or other professional services, you will incur commissions, fees, and/or charges. These charges are separate and distinct from JWCA and are not part of JWCA's advisory fees. When an IAR recommends that you utilize a separate service, these generate additional sources of compensation for the IAR and therefore creates a conflict of interest. To mitigate such conflicts, JWCA will never require you to utilize a separate service offered by your IAR, nor are you required to implement any tax, legal, investment, or other recommendations through such businesses. You are always free to use any accountant, attorney, insurance agent, or any other professional of your choice.

In some instances, we may allow your IAR to independently own their own Investment Adviser (IA) firm. In such cases, your IAR is then dually registered as an IAR of both JWCA, and their own investment adviser firm. As a result, your IAR may provide advisory services to you under their own advisory firm, or under JWCA as described in your written agreement. In every situation, you should carefully consider any conflicts of interest when your IAR offers other advisory professional services, for which they receive additional compensation.

JWCA also has a dedicated team of IARs in its corporate office who operate a "doing business as" ("dba") unit of JWCA, known as "Dash-Wealth." In addition, a small subset of Dash-Wealth employees, who are IARs of JWCA operate their own offices around the United States. Dash-Wealth is not a registered investment adviser. JWCA Dash-Wealth IARs may service certain accounts of JWCA clients that are not currently serviced by other JWCA IARs. In some cases, JWCA Dash-Wealth IARs are compensated as employees of JWCA, and such compensation can include a salary, bonus and other things of value as set out above. Dash-Wealth is an affiliate of both JWCF and JWCA.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics

JWCA has adopted a Code of Ethics describing the standards of business conduct that we expect all officers, directors, employees, and IARs to follow. Our Code also describes certain reporting requirements that individuals associated with JWCA, or employed by us, must comply with.

JWCF, in its capacity as a broker-dealer may buy and sell securities in their proprietary accounts. In addition, IARs buy and sell securities in their own accounts. These accounts are known as "proprietary accounts." Also, your IAR may recommend to you and other clients, securities in which he/she is personally investing or is recommending to other clients. Both scenarios create a conflict of interest. To mitigate any potential conflicts, JWCA may aggregate orders for securities transactions for more than one client. In appropriate circumstances, the aggregation may include proprietary accounts. However, we strive to treat each client fairly and will not favor any given client or proprietary account. JWCA, does not maintain proprietary accounts.

JWCA does not act as principal in securities transactions. JWCF, in its capacity as a broker-dealer, may act as principal when buying or selling fixed-income securities. In these situations, your trade confirmation will notify you that JWCF acted as principal for the transaction. JWCF will only act as a principal for fixed-income products if this action can secure a better price for you in the open market. This will result in a lower overall cost to you, compared to an automated trade. Appropriate JWCA personnel monitor these transactions. If a conflict of interest arises, we will promptly notify you of such a conflict.

Further, we maintain internal policies which generally prohibit IARs from knowingly buying or selling securities from a client, as principal and effecting agency cross transactions involving a client. However, it is possible that the executing broker-dealer, without your IAR's knowledge or our knowledge, could inadvertently cross your transaction. A cross trade is where buy and sell orders for the same asset are offset without recording the trade on the exchange. Appropriate JWCA personnel will review cross transactions, as well as transactions by employees and related persons, in an effort to ensure best price execution and minimize any conflicts of interest.

You may request a copy of our Code of Ethics by contacting our corporate office, at (866) 592-6531 or email us at: compliance@jw-cole.com.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

JWCA does not require you to use a specific broker-dealer to execute securities transactions for your account. However, we have established a relationship with JWCF, and with their clearing firm, National Financial, LLC ("NFS"), a subsidiary of Fidelity Investments, which acts as custodian. We also use Institutional Wealth Services ("IWS"), a business unit and a division of Fidelity Institutional and a subsidiary of Fidelity Investments, TD Ameritrade Institutional and Schwab Institutional as custodians.

In the absence of a written pre-approval from JWCA allowing the use of another broker-dealer, your IAR will utilize JWCF to execute securities transactions for your advisory account through its relationship with NFS. As described in "Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations" when selecting JWCF as the broker-dealer, it creates a conflict of interest, if your IAR is dually registered as a registered representative of JWCF. JWCA allows for this conflict by considering the additional services provided. However, JWCA must determine, in good faith, that the amount of any commission or transaction fee paid to JWCF is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage services provided. This is viewed in terms of either a particular transaction, or our overall responsibilities with respect to accounts, as to which we exercise investment discretion. JWCA may evaluate other broker-dealers from time to time, to determine if a better combination of services and commission rates are available for our clients.

JWCF Conflicts of Interest:

Any transaction fees you pay as a result of a securities transaction for your account will be determined according to standard rates in effect at JWCF, or as negotiated by you and your IAR. Transactions fees charged by JWCF are competitive in the industry, but are not the lowest transaction fees available. These transaction fees are charged by the applicable custodian, paid by you in your JWCA account and partially shared with JWCF. They are not shared with your IAR or JWCA. The sharing of transaction fees with JWCF is a conflict of interest when your IAR is affiliated with both JWCF and JWCA. This conflict is mitigated, since these charges are not shared with your IAR, and JWCA does not require you to use JWCF to effect transactions. You always have a choice as to the type of advisory services that you select. Asset-Based advisory programs do not separately charge transaction fees as the transaction fees are included in the overall advisory fee. However, the overall cost you will incur if you participate in our wrap fee program may be higher or lower than you might incur by separately purchasing the same types of securities in our Transaction-Based Advisory Program as the Program fee in our wrap accounts is higher than a Program Fee in a transaction-based advisory account. Since you have the ability to choose the type of account you want, including the fee structure and the custodian, we believe this mitigates this conflict.

Variable Annuities:

Variable annuities are complex investments offered by insurance companies. Investment in a variable annuity contract is subject to general market risk and the insurance company's credit risk. Variable annuities are regulated under both securities and insurance laws and the related rules and regulations. Variable annuities may offer benefits and features that may or may not have value to you depending on your circumstances, which your IAR will discuss with you. Similar to other investments, commissions are paid for the purchase of variable annuities (excluding fee-based variable annuities) and there are often surrender charges for early liquidation of a variable annuity. These charges are clearly listed in the product's prospectus. You will find additional information about the risks, commissions, surrender charges, and other expenses in the prospectus.

Similar to mutual funds, insurance companies may charge a variety of fees against the assets invested in the sub-accounts of the insurance contract. As noted above, this typically means there are two layers of advisory fees incurred: one layer by the insurance company and one layer to JWCA for your advisory services.

As described in more detail in “Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations,” many of our IARs are also registered representatives with JWCF and licensed to sell general securities products, such as commission-based variable annuities. If your IAR, in their capacity as a representative of JWCF, receives any compensation in connection with the sale of those products, it creates a conflict of interest. To mitigate this conflict of interest, among other things, you are not required to purchase any brokerage products through JWCF.

Benefits Received:

Brokerage service providers frequently offer us other products and services that assist us in managing and administering clients’ advisory accounts, but these may not directly benefit your account. JWCA often uses many of these products and services to service all, or a substantial number of, our client accounts, including providing these services for accounts that are not utilizing alternate broker/dealer services. These products and services include software and other technology that:

1. provide us access to client account data, such as trade confirmations and account statements;
2. facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts;
3. provide market reports, pricing and other economic data;
4. facilitate payment of our fees from our clients’ accounts; and
5. assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting (See section below “Soft Dollars” for research benefits received.

Brokerage service providers also offer a wide variety of other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise. These services include support and assistance in such areas as: compliance; legal; business consulting; publications; conferences on practice management and business succession, and access to employee benefits providers; human capital consultants; and insurance providers. Brokerage service providers, at times, provide other benefits to us, such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of our personnel. In evaluating whether to recommend a custodian for your assets, JWCA and/or your IAR may take into account the availability of some of these services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors considered, in addition to the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services. The availability of these services from brokerage service providers creates a conflict of interest. However, to mitigate this conflict, JWCA does not encourage or limit the benefit of these products and services to only clients utilizing a specific brokerage service provider’s services. JWCA allows the use of the market data and other services provided by the brokerage service providers or other institutions, with which our clients have accounts, for the benefit of all clients.

Unless directed otherwise by you, we seek to negotiate commissions, mark-ups, and other brokerage fees to ensure a reasonable rate based on multiple factors, including execution prices which we review annually to determine their reasonableness.

Soft Dollars:

The Firm may enter into an agreement with our brokerage service providers to allow JWCA to receive certain brokerage and research products and services that qualify under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These benefits associated with this agreement may not directly benefit you.

Client Referrals:

JWCA receives no referral from our brokerage service providers or third party in exchange for using that broker-dealer or third party.

Expense Sharing:

JWCA has an expense sharing agreement with JWCF in connection with providing us with office space, office equipment, and administrative services in return for JWCA directing securities transactions for execution and clearing to NFS. This agreement provides a financial benefit to JWCA, which does not directly benefit you. However, to mitigate this conflict of interest, you may utilize a different broker-dealer to purchase your securities, as described in more detail below under the “Directed Brokerage” section.

Cash Balances:

Cash Sweep

Cash balances in your advisory account are normally placed in a cash sweep account or, in some instances, “cash alternatives,” such as a money market fund which typically pays you interest on the cash in your advisory account. As disclosed above, JWCA does not custody client accounts and you, the Client, have the ability to decide where your account will be custodied. While JWCA does not require you to use any particular custodian, the Firm has a relationship with a broker-dealer, JWCF (see Item 4 above), and JWCF’s clearing firm, NFS. Cash sweep accounts and money market funds offered through JWCA are typically custodied at NFS.

Cash Sweep Accounts Custodied at NFS through JWCF

In an effort to minimize potential conflicts of interest, the default for cash sweep on the NFS platform will be the “FDIC – Insured Deposit Sweep” (“QPRMQ”). This option provides you with FDIC protection that other options do not afford. In some cases, specifically clients who have certain entity accounts, where QPRMQ is not available, the Fidelity Government Money Market Fund (“SPAXX”) will be used. JWCA will periodically review, and if necessary, convert your Cash Sweep Account to the most appropriate option for your investment account. Note that when your cash balance is placed in a FDIC-Insured option or a money market fund, the cash balance is not invested in securities.

FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep Accounts:

As previously mentioned, your cash will be held in an FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep Account (often referred to as QPRMQ) for accounts custodied at NFS, through JWCF. QPRMQ is considered a cash sweep account. QPRMQ pays you interest on the cash balance of your advisory account. That cash balance, however, also incurs several fees: (1) a management fee, charged by JWCA; (2) an asset-based fee charged by NFS; and (3) certain internal fees paid to each Program Bank participating in QPRMQ. (Additional details about this account, including information about fees charged by the account manager, can be found in the Fidelity® Cash Management Account FDIC-Insured Deposit Sweep Program Disclosure).

The recommendation to open a FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep account and the potential for JWCA to generate fees based on your use of that account creates certain conflicts of interest between you and JWCA and/or between you and your IAR:

JWCA Management Fee. The management fee charged by JWCA to you is determined based on the total value of the assets in your advisory account, including any cash balance in an FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep. JWCA is incentivized to recommend that you maintain your cash positions in your advisory account, as opposed to outside your advisory account, because this increases the amount of assets in your advisory account subject to the Management Fee.

1. NFS Asset Based Fee: NFS receives a fee from participating Program Banks on all assets held by JWCA clients in an FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep account (such as QPRMQ). NFS shares a portion of that fee with JWCF pursuant to a revenue sharing agreement. JWCF receives up to an annual rate of 1.85% across all assets held in FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep. The fee is determined in the aggregate and based on a percentage of the average daily balance of all assets held in the FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep. Participating Program Banks may pay rates of interest that are lower than prevailing market interest rates. The NFS Asset Based fee is not shared with JWCA or your IAR, but, because JWCA and JWCF have entered into an expense-sharing agreement (see Item 4 above), there exists a conflict because use of the FDIC-Insured Deposit Cash Sweep account by JWCA clients results in additional revenue to JWCF. As noted above, however, there is no requirement that you use NFS as your custodian.

Mutual Funds, Index Funds, and ETFs:

Mutual Funds, Index Funds, and ETFs typically charge their shareholders various fees and expenses associated with their establishment and ongoing operation. These fees generally include a management fee, a shareholder servicing fee, other fund expenses, and sometimes a 12b-1 fee. As discussed above, mutual funds and variable annuities that pay 12b-1 fees to JWCF can create a conflict for JWCA as it incents the firm to increase revenue to JWCF, with which JWCA has an expense sharing arrangement. For all advisory accounts, the Firm seeks to minimize this conflict as described above (See “Conflicts of Interest Considerations Regarding Mutual Funds and Variable Annuities”). Certain Mutual Funds, index funds or ETFs may also impose short term redemption fees for sales of funds that occur prior to the specified period as outlined in the prospectus, which is available from your IAR, the fund, or JWCA upon request.

Consequently, for any type of mutual fund or variable annuity investment it is important to understand that you may be paying various levels of fees and expenses: one layer of fees and expenses is paid at the fund or annuity level, as discussed above, another layer of fees is paid by you directly to JWCA and your IAR to manage your advisory account (e.g., investment management fee). In addition, JWCA or the custodian may impose a Program Fee to maintain your advisory assets and execute transactions.

NFS also offers JWCF access to its No Transaction Fee Program (“NTF Program”). As part of the NTF Program, NFS waives transactions fees that it, and JWCF, would otherwise charge the client for purchases and sales of certain mutual funds available on NFS’ platform. Instead of charging a transaction fee, these funds generally have higher internal fees and expenses, than a similar, non-NTF Program fund. Such fees and expenses negatively impact the performance of the fund over time. Depending on how long you remain invested in the NTF Program fund, you may pay more in fees than you would if you had invested in a non-NTF Program fund, even though there was no transaction charge on the initial purchase. These NTF mutual funds are sold under prospectus wherein the various share classes and internal fees are outlined. The Firm strongly encourages you to review the fund prospectus. The specific funds that are part of NFS’ NTF Program are determined by the mutual fund companies and the custodian and not by JWCA or its unaffiliated broker-dealer, JWCF, with which JWCA maintains an expense sharing arrangement.

Certain NTF funds are designated by the custodian as an iNTF, also referred to as a Managed NTF. These funds do not incur a transaction charge and their specified share classes have lower internal fees and expenses compared to the specified share class of the same fund that is designated as an NTF. When available, JWCA will seek to hold funds designated as iNTFs. The Firm does not maintain proprietary models and does not promote or encourage the use of specific mutual funds.

Directed Brokerage:

Retail brokerage services are made available through National Financial Services, which has an agreement with JWCF, a registered broker-dealer with which JWCA maintains an expense sharing agreement.

Depending on the advisory program you select, JWCA requires clients to agree in their advisory agreement that their account(s) are introduced by JWCA on a fully disclosed basis, and that securities purchases and sale transactions in their account(s) shall be directed through JWCF. You should consider that not all investment advisory firms allow clients to direct execution of transactions through a specific broker-dealer. Brokerage accounts are carried by, and brokerage transactions are cleared and settled through, JWCF, subject to JWCF policies, to assure that the resultant price to the client is as favorable as possible under the prevailing market conditions.

Trade Allocation Policy Review:

JWCA has adopted a trade allocation policy to govern how we handle the aggregation of orders for multiple client accounts. We may aggregate orders for securities transactions for more than one client. In appropriate circumstances, the aggregation may include proprietary accounts (e.g. personal accounts of IARs). We strive to treat each client fairly and will not favor any given client or proprietary account. When executed, we will allocate the aggregated order with the intent to achieve fair treatment. The purpose of aggregating orders is for our administrative convenience and, in some transactions, to obtain better execution for the aggregated order than what might have otherwise been achieved if each of the transactions was processed separately. A consequence of not aggregating a client's order with other orders for the same securities is that the client may not obtain as favorable of a price, or as low of a cost in a separate transaction, as clients whose orders have been aggregated.

Each account that participates in an aggregated order will participate at the average share price for all transactions in that security attributable to that aggregated order. If permitted by the broker- dealer effecting the transaction, transaction costs will be shared on a pro rata basis. Some broker-dealers charge brokerage commissions on each participating client in accordance with the size of that client's share of the aggregated order, regardless of the total size of the aggregated order. If an aggregated order is not filled in its entirety, it will be allocated among participating accounts on a fair and equitable basis. This is typically done on a pro rata basis.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

IARs will provide regular investment advice and periodically monitor their clients' portfolios. As part of the investment process, IARs may schedule annual client meetings, or meet at any time at the client's request. Meetings are generally conducted in person but can be conducted by telephone or other forms of communication. During a client meeting, the IAR will review your financial situation and objectives, the performance of your account, and verify that that your portfolio is still consistent with your stated investment objectives, asset allocation, and risk tolerance. JWCA may also review your account based on: material market, economic or political events, or by changes in your financial situation, (such as retirement, termination of employment, physical move, or inheritance) large deposits or withdrawals from your account, or your request for an additional review.

If we provide you with portfolio management services, we may prepare portfolio reports, depending on the size of your account and whether the money manager, broker-dealer, or custodian involved in the relationship regularly produces reports. However, for the most part, we rely on the custodians and third-party investment advisers to send written reports directly to you, or to your IAR, who in turn distributes them to you. Reports provided by JWCA will include security and cash transactions, along with end of period holdings.

Each client of JCWA will receive a quarterly report detailing your advisory account, including assets held, asset value, and calculation of fees. This written report will come from the custodian.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Other Compensation:

JWCA must disclose any economic benefits we, or our IARs, receive for providing investment advice and other services to you, as described in "Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations." Additionally, when serving as licensed insurance agents, accountants, attorneys or in other professional capacities distinct from JWCA, our IARs may receive other forms of compensation. As described above, while this creates a conflict of interest, we mitigate this conflict by not requiring you to purchase such other products or professional services. We also describe in "Item 12 Brokerage Practices" that we receive ancillary benefits, services and products from custodians and broker-dealers.

A conflict of interest exists as certain TPIAs or TPIA platforms in which you may invest will pay JWCA a marketing fee. Currently AssetMark, Orion Portfolio Solutions, and Howard Capital Management pay marketing fees to JWCA based on the JWCA client assets invested in their TPIA platforms. The amounts paid to us differ with each TPIA. These fees are not greater than 11.5bps (.115%). For example, if you invest $10,000, JWCA could be paid up to $11.50. We help mitigate this conflict because IARs do not receive any portion of these fees directly, nor are they specifically aware of JWCA's specific arrangements related to marketing fees. Also, you may choose among various management platforms, regardless of the amount of marketing fees paid to JWCA, that do not pay a higher overall payout percentage to your IAR. However, your IAR indirectly benefits, as these fees are used to support the costs relating to product review, marketing and training, and annual conference costs.

At times IARs receive economic benefits in the form of promotional items, meals or entertainment, or other non-cash compensation from representatives of mutual fund companies, insurance companies, TPIA's and direct participation sponsors, as permitted by regulatory rules. Furthermore, the sale of mutual funds, variable insurance products, and other products, at times qualifies our representatives for additional business support and for attendance at seminars, conferences, and entertainment events. However, you are always free to choose which mutual fund, insurance company, TPIA, or direct participation sponsor you want to invest.

Finally, some of the JWCA IARs will be compensated at different levels, depending on the product or program in which you are invested. In these cases, those IARs will receive a higher overall percentage of the management fee split between JWCA and the IAR based on the TPIA platform they recommend, excluding ERISA accounts. This creates a conflict of interest because your IAR may be incented to direct your assets into programs that compensate the IAR at a higher level. However, we mitigate this conflict by charging you the same level of fee regardless of your IAR's compensation level. We encourage you to ask your IAR about their compensation level in different programs.

Client Referrals - Paid Promotor Arrangements:

From time to time, we engage "Paid Promoters" to market our advisory services. If we do so, you will receive a separate Paid Promoter Disclosure Document describing our solicitation arrangements with that entity or individual, how the Promoter is compensated, and the terms of that relationship. You will also receive a copy of this brochure.

Item 15 - Custody

We do not maintain physical custody of client funds or securities. Custody for investment management accounts is maintained by either Fidelity (NFS and IWS), Schwab, or TD Ameritrade, or other approved custodian. You will receive account statements directly from your custodian at least quarterly. We encourage you to carefully review these statements upon receipt.

We will not have access to client funds or securities except for having advisory fees deducted from client accounts and paid to us by the custodian. Any fee deductions will be done pursuant to client's written authorization provided to the custodian.

In addition, please note, that the SEC issued a no-action letter ("Letter") with respect to the Rule 206(4)-2 ("Custody Rule") under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 ("Advisers Act"). The letter provided guidance on the Custody Rule as well as clarified that an adviser who has the power to disburse client funds to a third-party under a standing letter of instruction ("SLOI") is seen as to have custody. JWCA has custody for this limited purpose. As a result, our firm has adopted the following safeguards with our custodians:

- The client provides an instruction to the qualified custodian, in writing, that includes the client's signature, the third-party's name, and either the third-party's address or the third-party's account number at a custodian to which the transfer should be directed.
- The client authorizes the investment adviser, in writing, either on the qualified custodian's form or separately, to direct transfers to the third-party either on a specified schedule or from time to time.
- The client's qualified custodian performs appropriate verification of the instruction, such as a signature review or other method to verify the client's authorization and provides a transfer of funds notice to the client promptly after each transfer.
- The client has the ability to terminate or change the instruction to the client's qualified custodian.
- The investment adviser has no authority or ability to designate or change the identity of the third-party, the address, or any other information about the third-party contained in the client's instruction.

- The investment adviser maintains records showing that the third-party is not a related party of the investment adviser or located at the same address as the investment adviser.
- The client's qualified custodian sends the client, in writing, an initial notice confirming the instruction and an annual notice reconfirming the instruction.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

Your IAR will manage your assets on either a discretionary or nondiscretionary basis. Discretionary authority grants your IAR the authority, to buy or sell securities for your portfolio as well as the amount of securities to buy or sell without obtaining your specific contemporaneous consent. In all cases, however, your IAR is required to exercise discretion that is consistent with your financial profile, account objectives, risk tolerance, any written investment guidelines, and any restrictions you established with us in writing to limit our discretionary authority in relation to your account. You must expressly authorize your IAR, in writing either at the beginning of your advisory relationship for your specific advisory service, or at the time discretion is requested, in order for your IAR to trade on a discretionary basis for your account.

You may also be required to sign an agreement with your custodian, which generally includes a limited power of attorney. This limited power of attorney grants your IAR the authority to direct and implement the investment and reinvestment of your assets within the account. In no case does discretion, or a limited power of attorney, grant either JWCA or your IAR the authority to transfer or withdraw assets from your account

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, JWCA is not responsible to forward or respond to any proxy solicitations resulting from securities held in your account, including proxies for annual meetings or special meetings of shareholders. The custodians will forward proxy solicitation materials to you directly for your response or inquiry. Third-party managers (e.g. TPIAs) may vote proxies if authorized to do so in your agreement. Neither JWCA nor its IARs will vote proxies for you.

Item 18 - Financial Information

As an investment adviser, we must provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about our financial condition if we have financial commitments that impair our ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to you. We have not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding and do not have any financial commitments that would impair our ability to meet any contractual or fiduciary commitments to you.
